According to the magazine, ChemLogix' inclusion in this year's "100" list recognizes the company's leadership as a solution and service provider in assisting the supply chain function and supply chain executives as their customers position their organizations not only to meet the urgent business imperatives of the current downturn but also to thrive as the economy rebounds.

"We are honored to have been recognized by Supply & Demand Chain Executive for successfully enabling our customers to build economic value during these challenging conditions. Our close customer relationships have been critical for us to be proactive in driving cost and process improvements," states Steve Hamilton, President & CEO of ChemLogix.

Eight years ago, Supply & Demand Chain Executive announced its first "100" list of supply chain solution providers, consultants and other organizations that were helping lead the way in transforming companies' supply and demand chains. This year, the magazine focused the criteria for its "100" feature on economic recovery. Final recipients are featured in the cover story of the June/July 2009 issue of Supply & Demand Chain Executive, as well as online at www.SDCExec.com/SDCE100.

"Our goal with this year's '100' is to highlight a broad range of solutions and services targeted at a variety of industries, addressing the needs of companies of varying sizes, and assisting in the transformation of a diverse mix of the functions that make up the supply chain," explained Andrew K. Reese, editor of Supply & Demand Chain Executive.
