Press release from: Open Business Club GmbH \(openBC\)

Hamburg - May 16, 2006 - The global business network openBC today announces the launch of a new community management solution: the openBC Premium Groups, developed for major global communities, from university and corporate alumni groups to leading business magazines and multinational organizations. This new social software offering enables effective management and growth of existing communities within the professional context of openBC. As well as creating stronger ties with the people that matter and brand exposure to an international business network, Premium Groups also offer sustainable business models for operators.

Access to all communities with master openBC login

Even major organizations face difficulties forming and maintaining close communities online, with users reluctant to register with dozens of different websites. openBC Premium Groups provide a solution here, as Sarik Weber, openBC's VP Corporate Sales, explains: "The new Premium Group technology integrates larger online communities into the open and secure environs of openBC. This is a major development in openBC's offering – it enables Premium Group members to access all of their various communities with one master openBC login and just one personal profile to maintain." And this is not just networking for networking's sake: "It was important for us to give external operators the opportunity to actually make money from their openBC Premium Group as well," emphasizes Weber.

Brand exposure to over 1 million professionals

Premium Groups are closed branded areas on openBC, enabling communities to present their group with individual logos and graphics. Besides strengthening communities' identity, this online brand presence is an invaluable way of boosting visibility, building awareness and credibility within the wider openBC community. Premium Group logos are displayed on members' openBC contact page as well, giving communities the option of promoting themselves and acquiring new targeted professionals via the platform.

Increased activity for closer ties

Figures detailing the level of openBC activity speak for themselves: 70% of members have logged in to the platform within the past 30 days, generating over 200 million page impressions during this period. Premium Group operators can reach their members on openBC, rather than waiting for them to log in on their site. And what's more: Members' data is kept automatically up-to-date, as openBC users update their individual profiles on a continuous basis. This is advantageous for companies, organizations and institutions, allowing them to connect and remain in contact with their entire community on a permanent basis.

Genuine innovation for members' networking potential

It is no coincidence that openBC is one of the fastest-growing business networking communities on the web – with members benefiting from new features and technologies launched on a weekly basis. Premium Groups will be continuously adapted and optimized to meet community's individual needs in precisely the same way.
