DALLAS – The Dallas trial law firm Sayles Werbner is pleased to announce that four of the firm's partners once again have earned recognition among the state's best attorneys in the annual Texas Super Lawyers listing.

Richard A. Sayles and Mark S. Werbner, co-founders of the firm, and Sayles Werbner partners Eve L. Henson and William S. Snyder are highlighted in the 2009 Texas Super Lawyers listing. Mr. Sayles, Mr. Werbner and Mr. Snyder were honored for their work in business litigation, and Ms. Henson was recognized for her work in intellectual property litigation,

In addition to their Texas Super Lawyers selections, this marks the seventh consecutive year that Mr. Sayles and Mr. Werbner have been honored among the Top 100 attorneys in the state. Both have earned this additional recognition each year since the listing was first published in 2003, and each previously has been featured among the state's Top 10 lawyers.

Mr. Snyder and Ms. Henson have earned the Texas Super Lawyers designation for the second consecutive year, and both previously have been recognized in the companion Texas Rising Stars guide that honors the state's top young attorneys.

To create the annual Texas Super Lawyers listing, researchers solicit nominations from the more than 70,000 attorneys across Texas. A blue-ribbon panel of lawyers assists with final selections, and fewer than 5 percent of all Texas lawyers earn the distinction each year.

The listing appears in the October 2009 issue of Texas Monthly magazine and Texas Super Lawyers magazine, which is published by Law & Politics Media Inc. in conjunction with Texas Monthly.

Sayles Werbner has an international reputation as a "go to" trial law firm in multifaceted business litigation, intellectual property, life-altering personal injury cases, product safety lawsuits and other areas of the law.
